

Helena is a cognitive linguist at NTU with a keen research interest in the fields of cognitive linguistics, cognitive and language development, computational linguistics and language acquisition & language teaching. She was born and brought up in China, educated in various Chinese and Western universities and made her PhD in linguistics at the University of Lund, Sweden.

Helena is a dedicated university educator and her courses include Cognitive linguistics, Psycholinguistics, Language acquisition, Introduction to cognitive science, Human development, Cognitive development, Contrastive linguistics, Chinese linguistics, Chinese lexicology, Language and society, Linguistics, culture and translation, Translation theory and practice, Sociolinguistics, Chinese language acquisition.

http://www.hss.ntu.edu.sg/Programmes/Chinese\_EN/AboutUs/FullTime-Faculty/Pages/Helena-Hong-GAO.aspx