

IDA LINA STINA JANSSON
Nanyang Technological University

Lina is an assistant professor of philosophy at Nanyang Technological University. She received her Ph.D. in philosophy from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor and her B.A. in physics and philosophy from Oxford University. She works in the philosophy of science and in the philosophy of physics.

Research Interests

In particular, her research interests have revolved around questions of what it takes to have a scientific explanation for some phenomenon and how to understand debates over the acceptability of a proposed type of explanation.